Buyer's Guide The LCP2 (Laser Carbine Pistol 2) is a laser sight designed specifically for the AR-15 platform. It mounts directly onto the barrel using standard mil spec M4/AR15 rails. The LCP2 has been tested extensively and proven to be accurate within 1 inch at 100 yards. The LCP2 uses a unique patented design which makes it easy to mount and remove. The LCP2 is available in both red and green versions. An LCP2 is a very versatile weapon. It can be used for precision shooting long range target practice hunting plinking competition and self defense. With its high power output the LCP2 is capable of hitting targets at distances greater than 300 meters. Its compact size makes it ideal for concealed carry applications. There are many different types of lasersight options available today. Some sights are built into rifles while others attach to the rifle via Picatinny rails. There are also fixed mounted lasersights and those that clip onto the gun. Each type offers advantages and disadvantages. For example a fixed mounted lasersight is easier to install and maintain however it does not allow for quick removal and replacement. Clip on models are generally lighter weight and smaller in size. However they require additional tools to install and remove. The LCP2 is best suited for shooters who enjoy accuracy and versatility. It is perfect for competitive shooters hunters law enforcement officers military personnel and civilians alike. Whether you're interested in precision shooting long distance shooting or just plain fun the LCP2 is the right choice for you! LCP2 holsters are sold online and at most sporting goods stores. There are many different types of thumb drives available today. Some are designed specifically for business purposes while others are meant for personal use. Regardless of which type you decide to use there are certain features that you must be aware of before making your choice. In order to ensure that you get the best possible product here are some important factors to take into consideration. Size Matters Thumb drives come in varying sizes. Most thumb drives sold today are between 1GB and 4GB. However there are some models that go beyond these limits. For example the largest thumb drive currently available is the 8GB SanDisk Cruzer Blade. Although this particular thumb drive has been discontinued it was still able to hold its own among the competition. Storage Capacity Another factor to consider is storage capacity. There are two main categories of thumb drives; flash memory and hard disk drives. Flash memory thumb drives are smaller and lighter than hard disk drives. Hard disk drives are generally preferred because they provide greater storage capacity. However flash memory thumb drives are cheaper and easier to carry around. Portability One of the most important aspects of choosing a thumb drive is portability. Many users prefer portable thumb drives because they are easy to store and transport. Portable thumb drives are typically small enough to fit inside a pocket or purse. Because they are small they are also lightweight and easy to handle. Security Finally security is another key aspect to consider. As mentioned earlier there are two primary types of thumb drives; flash memory and hard disk drives. Both types of thumb drives have advantages and disadvantages. While flash memory thumb drives are very secure they lack the storage capacity of hard disk drives. Conversely hard disk drives are large and bulky but they are extremely secure. Features To Look For When Buying A LCP2 Holster The LCP2 is a lightweight polymer pistol holster designed specifically for concealed carry. The LCP2 has been tested extensively and proven to be the best concealable holster available today. With its unique design the LCP2 offers superior comfort and performance while providing maximum retention. Its patented "L" shaped belt clip makes it easy to attach and remove from pants pockets. The LCP2 features a removable magazine pouch which holds two magazines securely and prevents accidental discharge. The LCP2 comes complete with a high quality nylon webbing belt loop attachment strap. The LCP2 is constructed using only top-grade materials and components. The LCP2 is manufactured in the USA. There are many different types of holsters on the market today. Some are heavy duty others are light weight. Some are comfortable others are uncomfortable. Some are durable others are cheap. There are many factors to take into consideration when choosing a holster. One factor that most people overlook is price. Many holsters are very inexpensive however there are few holsters that provide the same level of comfort and security as the LCP2. Another important factor to consider is whether or not the holster fits your body type. Most holsters fit either men or women however there are some holsters that are designed specifically for certain body types. The LCP2 was created with the average man in mind. The LCP2 is extremely comfortable and secure yet still allows for quick access to your weapon. The LCP2 is perfect for those who wish to conceal carry and enjoy wearing a traditional dress shirt and tie. The LCP2 is ideal for anyone who wants to wear a suit and tie to work everyday. The LCP2 is also suitable for those who want to wear jeans and casual shirts to work. The LCP2 is a versatile holster that works equally well for both formal occasions and business attire. The LCP2 is the ultimate choice for the modern gentleman who wishes to conceal carry his firearm. Different Types of Holster For LCP 2 There are many different types of holster available for the LCP2. The most common type of holster is the belt-style holster. There are two main styles of these holsters; open top and closed bottom. Open top style holsters allow access to the weapon while closed bottom style holsters cover the trigger guard. Both styles provide excellent concealment and retention capabilities. Another popular option is the inside the waistband (IWB) holster. This type of holster has been around since the early 1990s and offers superior comfort and concealability. However there are several drawbacks to using an IWB holster including limited mobility and difficulty drawing the firearm quickly. Lastly the ankle holster is another popular choice among law enforcement officers. Ankle holsters are typically worn by female police officers because they are easier to draw and maintain balance during high speed pursuits. Open Top Style Belt Holsters The open top style belt holster is probably the most commonly used holster for the LCP2. This type of holster is very comfortable and easy to wear. Most open top style belts are designed to be worn low on the hip which makes it easy to reach the gun quickly. In addition the open top design allows for quick access to the weapon. Some models include a lanyard hole located near the back of the holster. This allows the officer to attach a lanyard to the holster and carry it attached to his/her body. Other features of open top style holsters include adjustable tension straps and a removable magazine pouch. Closed Bottom Style Belt Holsters Another popular type of holster for the LCP2 is the closed bottom style belt holster. Closed bottom style holsters are generally preferred by those who wish to conceal the weapon. Many closed bottom designs are constructed with a rigid plastic frame that covers the trigger guard. This prevents accidental discharge of the weapon. While closed bottom holsters are more secure than open top holsters they are harder to access quickly. To gain access to the weapon the user must remove the holster completely from the belt loop. Once removed the user must slide the weapon into position and reattach the holster to the belt.
